

Institute of Linguistics of the University of Silesia in Katowice

and

Commission on Translation Studies of the International Committee of Slavists are honoured to invite philologists of various specialisations, translators, as well as all other interested scholars to participate in the eighth annual conference

SPACES OF TRANSLATION

19–20 October 2023, Katowice, Poland

As in previous years, the Spaces of Translation (8th edition) conference will be an opportunity to bring together translation scholars representing national and international centres. The broad coverage of the conference theme allows for the presentation of research results considering various methodological approaches from an interdisciplinary perspective. The subject of reflection will be both general issues and specific phenomena analysed on the basis of translations of literary and specialised texts. We are convinced that our thematic proposals will allow us to grasp the diversity of contexts and registers within which contemporary translation studies develop.
